

SCULPTOR WARD SECRETLY WEBS HIS LANDLADY

Mrs. Rachel Smith, with Whom He Boarded, Is Now His Bride.

BROTHER DIDN'T KNOW

Friends in Art World Greatly Surprised and Curious.

That J. Q. A. Ward, for half a century a leader in American art and dean of American sculptors, is enjoying his third romance despite his seventy-six years, became known to-day when his marriage to Mrs. Rachel Smith, of No. 24 West Eighty-fourth street, was announced.

The wedding took place on July 19 at the Rev. Dr. Cobb's church, at Seventy-seventh street and West End avenue, the Rev. Herman Webber officiating. There were only two witnesses, the sexton and a Miss Wilson, who was called in. The couple said nothing to any one about their marriage, and the news of it to-day came as a great surprise to the world of art.

Mrs. Ward is a charming woman, many years the junior of her husband. She was born in Newburg, N. Y., and has a son, Raymond Smith, an artist, of Chicago. Even the relatives of Mr. Ward were amazed to learn of his marriage.

When at his studio, No. 120 West Fifty-second street, Mr. Ward consented to see a World reporter. "Married?" he repeated. "Well, why not? Yes, I'm married, but it's no one's business. I have nothing to say about it."

But what was the lady's name? he was asked. "Couldn't make Model Wait."

"Never mind," he replied impatiently. "I'm busy now, very busy. I have a model posing. It is very important, you see, with the draperies just so and the model turning out. Every minute counts. I must return to my work. Perhaps you'll come around later. I may tell you. But not now." And Sculptor Ward, brushing a piece of clay from his canvas, made the reporter good-bay.

Mrs. Ward was found at her home, No. 24 West Eighty-fourth street. She lives on the fourth floor in a handsome suite. Statuary, fine paintings and bric-a-brac adorn the rooms.

"I am preparing to move," she said, pointing to boxes stacked about on the floor. "This is what I have been doing—this notorious. Really, I see no reason why the facts should not be made known now. We tried to keep our marriage a secret, and have failed."

"I have known Mr. Ward ever since I was ten years old. My home was in Newburg and his was in Urbana, O. He was married twice, but his married life was short. His first wife lived about seven years and his second about a year and a half. I was a widow for twenty years. My son lived with me until he married and went to Chicago."

Grew Fond of Each Other.

"Mr. Ward has boarded with me for six years here. He is a most elegant man, but we never thought of marriage. He had been expecting to end his work soon and go to his old home in Urbana where his maiden sister lives. I expected to go to live with my son in Chicago."

"I have always believed in only one marriage. I never believed the grand passion could exist twice. When persons grow old companionship becomes very important and we seek it. We have been good companions and friends. We shall now spend the remainder of our days together."

What is this? he asked. "My brother married," exclaimed Edgar Ward. "I did not know that my brother was in the city. I thought he was in the Adirondacks fishing. Whom did he marry? When did he marry?"

Sculptor Ward was more communicative when talking of his plans and his work.

"I have gradually," said he with a smile, "been withdrawing from active work. I shall finish this statue of George Washington. I have a little thing up in the Catskills. Pure air and the woods are alluring, and I had I not been busy here I should have gone up there. Next year I shall go early in May and wait for the coming of the spring."

Ward was born in Ohio in 1830 and when a youth of twenty he became a sculptor. He was instructed by Henry H. Brown, and in 1854 he came to New York, where from the first his talent was recognized. The statue of Washington in Wall street, the monument of the Stock Exchange, "The Indian Hunter" and "The Pilgrim" in Central Park and the quadrics for the Dewey memorial arch are some of the best known of his works.

FATHER O'LYNN, OF ST. JOSEPH'S, IS DEAD.

The Rev. Father Dennis Paul O'Lyinn, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Fourth street and Sixth avenue, died in the rectory of the church, No. 138 Waverly place, at 10 A. M. to-day.

For the past five weeks Father O'Lyinn has been in ill health. His illness began with prostration from heat, and other complications followed. At the time of Father O'Lyinn's death Archbishop Douvard, of Santa Fe, was at his bedside.

There was no better loved priest in all New York than Father O'Lyinn. He was born in Cork, Ireland, fifty-eight years ago, and was educated in Belgium. He was ordained a priest at twenty-five.

BOTH TOOK POISON BY MISTAKE

Henry Dohrm, a mechanic, fifty years old, is suffering at his home, No. 261 Central Avenue, Jersey City, from the effects of carbolic acid. He says that when he went to the store last night he was under the influence of liquor. He picked up a bottle which he thought contained coffee and drank the contents. The bottle contained carbolic acid. He was promptly recovered. He is married.

James Butler, a negro, forty-two years old, of No. 441 Myrtle street, died last night from the effects of carbolic acid, after recovering consciousness sufficiently to say he had taken the poison by mistake for medicine.

The sudden gathering of the crowd in front of the bank necessitated an extra police guard. Angry demonstrators were made against Miss Ella Miller, who served as Stensland's private secretary and is now working under the direction of the officials who are trying to straighten out the tangled affairs of the bank.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Chief of Police Collins is awaiting information from Gov. Deneen concerning a man said to resemble Paul D. Stensland, who was seen at Aguas Calientes, Mexico, last Tuesday night. Chief Collins received a telegram from a woman living there that a man resembling the fugitive banker was stopping at the Hotel Hidalgo.

Chief Collins communicated with Gov. Deneen, asking him to order the arrest of the man.

"I expect to receive an answer at any moment," said Chief Collins. "My information seems to be good and I believe that the man is Stensland. The Governor has promised to communicate with me if he obtains any information concerning the man."

BANK WRECKER STENSLAND IN MEXICO PRISON

Fugitive President Declared Captured in Aguas Calientes.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 22.—Gov. Deneen has received information that Paul D. Stensland, the fugitive president of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank, Chicago, has been captured. He declined to give any information, however, considering the communication confidential, saying that Chief of Police Collins, of Chicago, is the one to give the information.

Stensland has been reported captured at several places since his disappearance, and small dependences would be placed upon the telegrams from Texas if the people who sent them were not known to be trustworthy. There had been a suspicion on the part of the detectives trailing Stensland that he started for Mexico when he fled from Chicago, and a close search was made for him through the Southwest. His arrest, it is claimed, was made at a town called Aguas Calientes.

News of the capture of the man whose dishonesty financially ruined hundreds of struggling people on the north side and has already caused three suicides, spread rapidly throughout the city. It went through the neighborhood of the bank like wildfire, and in a few minutes the street in front of the wrecked institution was thronged with excited men and women anxious to know the truth.

The impression prevails among the depositors whom Stensland robbed that he took a vast amount of money away with him—probably $1,000,000. The hope was aroused by news of his capture that this lost might be returned to the coffers of the bank and eventually distributed among the victims.

The sudden gathering of the crowd in front of the bank necessitated an extra police guard. Angry demonstrators were made against Miss Ella Miller, who served as Stensland's private secretary and is now working under the direction of the officials who are trying to straighten out the tangled affairs of the bank.

POLICE CHASE STRIKERS ON LOCOMOTIVES

Thirty Men Patrol Lines of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Thirty policemen mounted on two engines patrolled the main line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey for a distance of five miles out of Jersey City to-day, stopping from time to time to fight with rioting section hands, who had gone on strike. When they had finally dispersed the strikers they had eighteen laborers under arrest. The prisoners were held by Magistrate Smith, in the Second Criminal Court, for examination to-morrow.

The men are striking for higher wages. They get $1.50 a day, and they want an increase of 25 cents. They began to threaten trouble last week, and today knocked off work. The railroad officials in anticipation of the strike had hired squads of laborers, and as soon as the regular men quit substitutes were sent to take their place.

The strikers in gangs of thirty or forty went along the line attacking the newcomers. A call was sent for the police, and reserves from the Fourth Precinct station came under Acting Capt. John Flannely with reserves from the Fifth under Acting Capt. McDewitt.

When they arrived at the yards they found two engines with steam up waiting for them. The policemen perched on the sides of the engines and on the top of the coal in the tenders. Then they started out on their patrol.

All along the line they came upon gangs of strikers arguing or fighting with scabs. The police used their night sticks and most of the night ended moving to the right and left, and the strikers, who were armed with clubs, returned to the Communist party terminal of the line, where the strikers were transferred to patrol wagons and taken to court.

MRS. VANDERBILT UNDER THE KNIFE A SECOND TIME

Wife of Reginald C. Rents
Well After the Operation To-Day.

NEWPORT, Aug. 22.—For the second time in two years Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt to-day underwent an operation for the removal of gallstones. It was performed with Dr. William T. Bull as principal surgeon. News of the event was awaited eagerly by all classes at this resort, where the young woman is a great favorite. The operation was begun at 11 o'clock this morning.

Shortly after noon the physicians announced that the operation had been entirely successful, adding that it was not a serious one, though the effects of it might not wholly be overcome for a month. Mrs. Vanderbilt was said to be resting comfortably.

The beautiful young woman was brought here from Saratoga two weeks ago, and it was thought for a time that she would recover without the use of the knife.

In preparation for the event, the great Vanderbilt country place, Sandy Point Farm, has been converted into a private hospital. Young Mr. Vanderbilt has engaged the most famous surgeons in the country, and nothing that wealth can obtain has been spared to insure success in the case.

Dr. William T. Bull and Dr. Austin Flint were brought here in a private car from New York, while Drs. Charles C. Bennett and Joseph A. F. Kelly, of Newport, were also engaged. Besides these a dozen trained nurses have been summoned from New York and Boston.

Their most luxurious boudoir and den into a hospital. All the costly decorations have been removed and the room is as bare as any surgical ward. The operation was performed in the boudoir, and the only piece of furniture there to-day was the grim-looking table of metal and glass.

Since Mrs. Vanderbilt arrived here from Saratoga she has been wavering in her health, and at the last moment cards for this were recalled. She was to have been hostess at a reception to-night, and at the last moment cards for this were recalled.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was Miss Cathleen Neilson and of her husband, Reginald C. Vanderbilt on April 14, 1900, just after he had been graduated from Yale. She is niece of the late President Cleveland and her sister is Mrs. Arthur Kemp.

Mrs. Vanderbilt has not been in good health for some time past, and a year ago she underwent an operation, which, however, failed to bring permanent relief.

Acting Mayor McGowan.

Carl Downing, a Brooklyn citizen, has written a letter of complaint to Acting Mayor McGowan, declaring the B. R. T. conductors do not give out the five-cent rebate checks unless they are especially asked for them. He said in seven times he had to ask for the checks five times.

He had noticed conductors passing through trains collecting fares, but of offering no checks. He says the B. R. T. is persistently violating its agreement with the Acting Mayor.

PUNCHED NEIGHBOR FOR INSULTING WIFE.

John Burnhart, a laborer, of No. 599 Eleventh avenue, pleaded guilty to assaulting Joseph Balton, of No. 425 West Forty-second street, when arraigned before Judge Rosinsky in General Sessions to-day.

"I hit him because he insulted my wife and told neighbors we were not married," Burnhart told the Judge. "and I think I was justified."

"You may have been morally justified," replied Judge Rosinsky, "but not legally."

As Burnhart had been in the Tombs since the date of the assault, July 6, Judge Rosinsky allowed him to go free on a suspended sentence.
